

Julie Alfonso is a Designer, Draftsperson, and Marketing Director for Sullivan Architecture. She recently celebrated her one-year anniversary at the firm in May 2016. Julie has been able to integrate her background of interiors with architecture allowing her to refine her awareness of technical and new architectural knowledge and processes on a daily basis.

Julie is regularly involved in multiple projects varying in phase, size and sector. She's been involved in pre-design work, schematic design, design development, construction document preparation, assistance with bidding procedures and has assisted with construction administration tasks. Julie applies her knowledge of AutoCAD and Adobe Photoshop to draft and render presentation images as well as graphic design work for the firm.

Projects she's collaborated on include a proposed age-targeted residential community in New Castle, NY, comprised of 68 units and the Egan Pavilion in the Bronx, NY, a three-story addition and 46 new suites to an existing retired priests' home. Currently, Julie is on a project team working on the complete renovation and conversion of the former White Plains Hotel into 212 luxury loft-style units, located in White Plains, NY.
